14. Brief History of the College: The College was set up in 1959 with the vision and foresight of a few educated men and women who felt the need for a liberal education to enlighten the masses. Nagaland, as a state, did not exist then but the region was under the State of Assam as the Naga Hills District and the insurgency movement then taking place led many young people to boycott schools. However, Fazl Ali College survived these turmoils and with a donation of ₹1 (rupees one) from every household in Mokokchung District and the help of the then Governor, Sir Syed Fazl Ali, the College came into being. When the State of Nagaland was formed in 1963, the Government took over the College as a fully funded Government Institution with retrospective effect from 1st March 1962 and the College has not looked back since then. Thus Fazl Ali College as a full-fledged Government Arts college was set in motion and gradually gained momentum. With the lapse of time, the need arose for the addition of a Science section to the College. In 1983, this became a reality with the addition of the Science stream.

When the College was first set up, it was under Gauhati University offering the IA course. With the formation of North Eastern Hill University (NEHU) in 1974 at Shillong, it was affiliated to NEHU and when Nagaland University (NU) came into being, it transferred its affiliation to NU. Today, the College offers almost all the Arts subjects and most of the established Science subjects. At its inception, the College had 4 Departments, 3 teachers and 43 students. Today, the College has 16 departments, 82 teachers and 949 students.
